Custom House here gave $507,000 in the 20 working days of February.

Harvey Enckling grounded on English Bank.

Panic still rampant on Bolas. Amortizables down to 194, and likely to go lower.

Rosario 1st.

Case of Carrasco versus Muñoz now going on. No verdict yet.

174 deaths here in February.

Tom Cruz, a Spanish grocer, subscribed 300 pats for the Pyramid in the Plaza.

Custom House gave 206,000 pats in February.

THE LONQUIMAY DIFFICULTY.

When the first telegrams arrived in this city announcing the unexpected collision at Lonquimay between Argentine and Chilean troops there was a general feeling of dissatisfaction in all circles, which was duly reflected in the columns of the press. As further advice were forwarded from the Chilean capital this deep feeling of dissatisfaction was increased by the unpalatable statement in the laconic telegrams that the Argentine troops had been beaten by the Chilean soldiers. The news was so very unpleasant that an addendum was appended to the telegrams, stating that these details had to be received "con grano salado," since they were of Chilean origin. The reported retreat and rout of the Argentine troops was a sore contradiction to the tradition of Argentine arms, and all awaited with feverish anxiety the official report of the Argentine commander-in-chief in the Nahuel Huapi triangle.

The report of the Chilean captain concerned in the Lonquimay fray was a most unexpected revelation, and the Chilean officer deserves credit for the ingenuity with which he plainly states that he was beaten back by the Argentine troops. Chileans, it must be acknowledged, have the courage to acknowledge a defeat, as all on this side of the Andes are convinced that, had he been an Argentine instead of a Chilean, he would have informed his superiors that he had made a scientific retreat after verifying accurately the position of the enemy. The Chilean official report has been very welcome news, since the wounded "amou-propre," as delicate here as in France, has been relieved. Argentines are most willing to be magnanimous after a victory, and the papers state that the Government should forward an apology immediately to the Chilean Government if the Argentine troops had invaded our neighbor's territory.

The most extraordinary feature of the affair is not so much the collision, or the coward of the Chilean officer, as that General Villagras's report on this delicate matter has not been published. All know the strong military character that characterizes the Argentine commander; he always states very clearly what he thinks, and in the strongest language. This frankness of character has made him a great favorite amongst his soldiers, and it is very significant indeed that he has not forwarded a straightforward account of the "escaramouche." It is whispered that the general sent to the Minister of War a detailed account of the matter, but that the tenor of the note was so highly flavored with a hostile spirit towards our transandine neighbors as to make its publication a question of the very highest importance.

There is no concealing the fact that the Chilean Government has adopted a conciliatory policy with regard to the Indian tribes which are being driven by the Argentine troops across the Andes. This Chilean protection of the Indians has no doubt incensed the Argentine commander, and the hostile spirit has spread amongst the troops. Under such circumstances the Nahuel Huapi expedition will not give the results which were anticipated. Both the Argentine and Chilean Cabinets should make a mutual agreement to help each other in the present campaign against the savage, and since the Chilean and Argentine commanders in the South cannot agree, two other men should be appointed. It is a fact to be noted that the Chilean troops protect the Indians that are being pursued by Villagras's men; the fact is that the Argentine troops are not so gallant to any foe who after a hot pursuit, several hours in the saddle, sees the enemy escape and find protection under Chilean banners.

The savage is a common enemy, and both Governments should make common cause against him, instead of neutralizing their reciprocal efforts. It is to be hoped that the Lonquimay affair and its diplomatic consequences may lead to an "entente cordiale" between both peoples. The Indian question will never be solved unless the present petty jealousies are removed and a broad policy be adopted, regardless of imaginary boundaries and territorial invasions. The people and the South of Chile will never be secure as long as an anarchy is offered to the savage; mutual interests call for a reciprocal policy and plan of campaign in Arica and on the Rio Negro. A joint combination would speedily drive the savage beyond the Limay and Rio Negro, limiting his barbarous jurisdiction to the Patagonian territory. If the success of this joint military operation calls for the removal of the present commanders-in-chief of the Chilean and Argentine forces, let them be removed by all means, as military jealousies should have no consideration whatever in the diplomatic relations and reciprocal interests of both countries.

THE CONGO'S MALES.

London, February 28th.

In the French Senate on Saturday the decision of the Committee on the Expulsion Bill was fixed for to-day, against the wish of the Government, which was in favour of the Bill.

Paris Correspondent says that many more or less ingenious compromises are talked of. While the complete rejection of the Bill, he adds, is scarcely likely, the chances of its passing as voted by the Chamber are thought to be considerably diminished.

Our Correspondent at Varna learns from Constantinople that the decision of the Senate with regard to Lord Granville's Note on Egypt really rests with the Sultan, whose further reference of the Note to the Minister is a sign of his perplexity. He hesitates, our correspondent adds, between a passionate desire to defy the country which has ignored his sovereignty over Egypt and fear of the consequences. This fear is increased by the confirmation of the Note by the Chamber of Deputies, which has agreed to accept the English proposals, with, perhaps, some slight modifications.

A correspondent at Cannes says that a surprising change has taken place in the condition of Mr. Gladstone since his visit to that town. He is altogether quite a new man. He takes a great deal of exercise, sleeps well, has a good appetite and enjoys himself thoroughly.

Our Geneva Correspondent telegraphs that an official proclamation has been issued by the Council of State prohibiting the meetings convened by the Salvation Army. The reasons assigned are that the meetings were preceded by convocations of a nature to agitate the population and disturb the public peace. Our Geneva Correspondent says that the action of the Council of State is severely blamed by the local press and the public generally.

Our correspondent at Cairo telegraphs that a staff-sergeant has been robbed by Bedouin savages from the Asasiyah barracks. He was threatened with death in the event of resistance.

In the court-house at Kilmarnock on Saturday night of the previous evening in custody were placed in the dock, charged with having murdered Lord P. Cavendish and Mr. Burke in the Phoenix Park on the 6th of May, evidence was given describing the finding of two long knives and a rifle in Carey's house, the former of which, according to the medical testimony, would have inflicted the fearful wounds on the body. Witnesses were called who identified two of the prisoners as amongst a group of men whom they had seen that evening in the Park, lying on their faces on a grassy space bordering the footpath of the principal road through the Park. Other identified one or two of the men as having been on the car which was driven rapidly away from the scene of the crime. The hearing will be resumed to-day.

In the Roman Catholic churches of Edinburgh yesterday a pastoral was read strongly condemnatory of secret societies.

Major L. H. Innes, who has been for some time the Conservative candidate for Fife, has announced to the leaders of the party that it is not his intention to stand for the borough.

Colonel Thomas Edward Taylor, M.P. for Dublin County, died on Saturday, and the funeral was held on Monday at the residence of the deceased, which had the offices of Junior Lord of the Treasury, Parliamentary Secretary to the Treasury, and Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Lord John Manners, M.P., attended the annual meeting of the Leicestershire Chamber of Agriculture on Saturday, and, discussing the question of land with great candour, the Duke of Rutland was in a bad condition, he did not think sweeping changes in the law would effect any magical results in the world of farmers' distress or enabling them to meet foreign competition. He believed much more in local customs having the effect of the law where they were known to be good.

According to the quarterly return of the Registrar-General, the resident population of the United Kingdom in the middle of last year was estimated at 35,280,209 persons that of England and Wales at 32,406,820, of Scotland, at 2,785,400 and of Ireland at 6,088,979. In the United Kingdom, the births of 278,474 children, and the deaths of 178,425 persons were registered in the three months ending December 31st. The recorded natural increase of population was thus 101,040. The registered number of persons married in the quarter ending September 30th was 123,380. The birth-rate in the United Kingdom in the fourth quarter of 1882 was 31.1 per 1,000, and the death-rate 19.7. The marriage rate in the third quarter of the year was 13.9 per 1,000.

Temperature yesterday fell several degrees in the north of Scotland, but rose elsewhere. Readings ranged from 50 degrees at Hailly to 42 at Stormont and Wick.

Sir James Hannan had before him on Saturday a case in which Lady St. Leonards sought for a judicial separation on the ground of adultery. There had originally been a cross suit for a restitution of conjugal rights; but so far as that of Lady St. Leonards was concerned, there was no defence, and the judge, after hearing the evidence, pronounced a decree of judicial separation, with costs.

The Stock Markets on Saturday were quiet, but Foreign Government issues showed firmness, closing, however, under the best prices. Roms and American railways were depressed, and declined from 2 1/4. Consols closed 102 to 104 for money, and 102 1/2 to 103 for the account. No public movements were reported at the Bank of England.

PHENIX PARK MURDERS.

IDENTIFICATION OF THE PRISONERS.

SCENE IN COURT.

Dublin, Saturday.

From an early hour this morning the approach to the County Court House at Kilmarnock were thronged with a large crowd of spectators, and by 10 o'clock a great number of the witnesses who were about the scene of the murder, and who identified some of the prisoners as being at the spot, were next produced. Stephen Hans, a tall, chubby-faced man, with dark hair, dressed in a military uniform, and a chin strap by trade, disposed to a group of men lying on their backs, and he described the position of the scene of the murder, and the position of the witnesses who were about the scene of the murder, and who identified some of the prisoners as being at the spot, were next produced. two knives, with long glittering blades and short black handles. These weapons are, as described by Doctors Porter and Miles, the original instruments, with blades about eleven inches long, and three-quarters of an inch broad, narrowing to a point. When these knives were discovered a description of them appeared in The Observer. The handles are three or four inches long, and are scored, for the purpose of giving a secure grip to an operator. After the production of the knives, James Carey consulted with his solicitor, but the witness Fitzsimons was not cross-examined. Inspector Smith, who, on the information of Fitzsimons, found the weapons in Carey's loft, was next examined. He was dressed in plain clothes, and advanced to the witness box, and he described the position of the scene of the murder, and the position of the witnesses who were about the scene of the murder, and who identified some of the prisoners as being at the spot, were next produced. After an exhaustive and memorable debate, 373 Republicans have decided that the Princes of the ex-regious houses of France are, for political reasons, ineligible to serve in the army, and that their living in France is subject to their not playing at presidency. If so, a policeman can be at any moment ring at the door-bell and invite them, in the name of M. Grévy, to quit the country. These precautionary measures are the consequence of Prince Napoleon's tournament against the windmills. The country has not manifested disposition nor approbation at the measures. As neither the Bonapartists nor the Legitimists were to be feared, attention naturally became concentrated on the Orleans Princes, who certainly have been of late making up lively.

As a rule, all political parties banish each other in this country when they arrive at power. The Republicans do not believe in the right of the Orleans Princes to be feared, attention naturally became concentrated on the Orleans Princes, who certainly have been of late making up lively.

Dr. Ayer's Compound Extract

For the certain and radical cure of all those diseases which arise from Impurity of the Blood.

It is a very foolish, indeed it amounts to insanity, to attempt to cure diseases of the blood by the use of such dangerous and worthless drugs as are now so commonly used. Dr. Ayer's Compound Extract is a well-known remedy of 40 years standing, and is prescribed by all eminent physicians throughout the world. Hundreds of thousands of sick and suffering persons have realized the benefits arising from the use of this truly blood-purifying medicine, and they are now everywhere testifying to its efficacy and the good results obtained by its faithful use.

At the General Meeting of St. Andrew's

Presbyterian Church, Buenos Aires, held on the 31st January, 1883, attention was called to the near approach of the time when the Rev. James Smith, Minister of the Church with the Church and people of Buenos Aires will be separated. The property of the Church in this connection, to mark the completion of a life's work, having been duly acknowledged and recognized, it was resolved that such memorial testimonials should be presented to the Rev. Mr. Smith at the time of his departure, and a Committee was appointed to prepare and present the same.

In pursuance of this resolution, the Committee do hereby inform the General Assembly that the memorial testimonials have been prepared and are now ready for presentation.

Other lists will be forwarded to some of the members of the Assembly, and the General Assembly is requested to consider the same, and to take such action as may be thought proper. The testimonials are now in the hands of the Secretary, David

McIntosh, and will be presented to the Rev. Mr. Smith on the 10th of March.

David McIntosh, Secy. "Retreat," Flores.

Sportsmen

In a league of wild cat, crossed by two brooks with permanent water, there are many fine birds of prey. There are also professional fowling birds ready to fill the lives of sportsmen. The following are the names of the sportsmen who are ready to accompany you on a hunt. We are also ready to supply you with all the necessary ammunition and other articles. We are also ready to supply you with all the necessary articles. We are also ready to supply you with all the necessary articles.
